ROBINSON GRAND RELEASES NEW WEBSITE

www.TheRobinsonGrand.com

Clarksburg, WV – One of North Central West Virginia’s largest economic development projects launched a new website today. The Robinson Grand Performing Arts Center, located in Clarksburg’s Central Business District, is undergoing a complete renovation and restoration. Opening is slated for Spring 2018.

According to City Manager Martin Howe, “The project is progressing rapidly. Interior demolition began two weeks ago and construction will be fully underway in late November. The new website will serve as an excellent tool for project updates and community feedback.”

The interactive site features project details, architectural animation and an opportunity for viewers to submit memories and photos.

The website was developed by Progressity, Inc. whose managing director, Kathleen DuBois, is serving as a planning, marketing and fundraising consultant on the project.

We invite you to visit www.TheRobinsonGrand.com and learn more about how this historic venue is bringing arts and culture to life in North Central West Virginia.
